

“Professor Kryukov is a tremendous asset to the campus, both as teacher, as researcher, and as a contributor to the life of the campus. As a teacher, he is much admired and highly successful in conveying what is often difficult subject matter to his students. As a researcher, he is productive and profound. His research carries with it the distinct possibility of literally changing the way we perceive and understand the world. And, as a member of the faculty, he continues to contribute in a variety of significant ways, working on committees and sharing his viewpoint in the governance of the campus.

Professor Kryukov is easily one of the most valuable faculty we have. He continues to work, and to work hard.”
